Directions:

You can use this in a traditional music class, to have students write about what they hear, and you can also use it in a home instruction situation, while schools are closed, or for homeschooling.

Students listen to three pieces of music, then draw and write about their favorite! You could provide a playlist in YouTube for them to listen to, or you could simply ask their parents to choose three of their favorite songs for their children to listen to, which could be a great home/ music connection.
